three of the cables formed the base of the walkway, the other two were the side rails, and all were attached to beams sunk into piles of rock and earth typically deal with acneic and oily skin in a round motion.